

The Venture's Unseen Law

Shape worlds whose unseen laws can move mankind.

When reason counts, imagination starts,
It joins the scattered sparks to one bright flame;
It finds the likeness hidden in our charts,
And gives our common purpose shape and name.

Mere knowledge waits; the generous will must rise
To make imagined good a living deed;
For sympathy sees others' worlds arise,
And turns shared vision into acts that lead.

Let language wake the meanings buried deep,
And open minds through wisdom's living light;
For usefulness is more than wealth can keep-
It binds our hearts and sets our purpose right.

Build more than things: build ties that bind;
Shape worlds whose unseen laws can move mankind.
